"Ghost and Hauntings of The Finger Lakes" by Patti Unvericht-Giglio

History of the Institute

Ghost and Spirits lurk beneath the water and on the shores of the Finger Lakes. Deep lakes, scenic waterfalls, charming villages-all are intrinsic parts of New York's Finger Lakes region. But behind this beauty, the spooky and ghostly reside.

Interesting facts: A former slave never left the William Seward House in Auburn, and eerie guests reside alongside live ones at Adams Basin Inn. When the Genesee Country Village and Museum's buildings were moved there, they brought their former residents along. And it is no wonder that some souls never left the Civil War POW camp in Elmira known as "Hellmira. "

This months book is very interesting don't you think. There are so many more stories that will scare and intrigue you to read more of this book.
